SportDrip — Rotating / Live-Ops Content Plan

Scope: content that updates on a schedule (e.g. new outfits weekly). Most of these need only data, not code, once Permanent items #3 and #4 ship. Date: Nov 5, 2026.

Bottom line

The engines exist (season pass, co-op rewards, quests, catalog). What is missing is content on a calendar. The repo has no seeded seasons/{id} doc and no time-limited catalog items, so the season pass and shop are currently static.

Recommended cadence

Cadence	Content	Repo hook	Evidence
Weekly (Mon, ET)	Drip Shop drop: 3–6 new/returning items, 'Leaving soon' row	catalog + new availableUntil (Perm #3); weekKey()	Fortnite item shop rotates on a fixed daily reset; FOMO effect described qualitatively, no public numbers
Weekly	Quest set from pool (effort/social/skill)	Perm #4	Reasoning only; no public data found
Weekly	Co-op league reward item	meta/coopRewards.current (exists)	Experiment already wired (coop_goals_v1); measure it
~8–12 weeks	Season pass season: themed tiers, items, backgrounds, moves	seasons/{id} (engine + season.tsx exist)	Battle-pass benefit widely claimed; only vendor/blog sources found — validate with own A/B
Sports calendar	Event drops: Super Bowl, March Madness, Opening Day, NBA/NHL playoffs	constants/seasons.ts dates	Reasoning; no study found
Yearly	Drip Wrapped (year-YYYY)	lib/wrapped.ts (exists)	Already built — just schedule

Operating rules

Return retired items occasionally rather than never — keeps FOMO from becoming pure frustration.

Keep store prices above Prize Box yield (existing decision); rotation increases demand, not credit supply.

Ship every rotation behind lib/experiments.ts with the global holdout so the retention lift is measured, not assumed.

Content production is the real cost: 3D item/move/background assets per week. If that cannot be sustained, ship bi-weekly — a missed drop is worse than a slower cadence.

Not recommended

Daily shop rotation: too much asset demand for current scale. Rotating paid-only items: no real-money purchases exist.
